

Katana Sealpro is our multi-purpose silicon sealant designed to be used for construction in sealing metal, glass, concrete and combination joints, holes, overlaps to prevent penetration or entry of water and other contaminants inside sheltered/enclosed areas. Our sealant formulation supports good adhesion over these materials and is highly resistant to the weathering effects of the sun, weather and other environment contaminants. It also does not emit strong odors and fumes usually harmful to health.

Our SEALPRO sealant is used in construction works particularly in roofing installation sealing the roof from possible leakages.

High grade multi-purpose silicone sealant for:

- Roofing and accessories installation
- General construction

